

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

By using a single semiconductor laser device, laser beams in infrared and red regions are generated at a distance between close light emitting spots.

A semiconductor laser resonator having an oscillation wavelength in an infrared region and a semiconductor laser resonator having an oscillation wavelength in a red region are formed in parallel on the same semiconductor substrate.